MBA graduates should be agents of change: Bedi

BANGALORE: The need of the hour for fresh MBA graduates is to become agents of change, Ramon Magsaysay Award and Pride of India award winner Kiran Bedi said here on Wednesday.

She was addressing the students at the 13th convocation ceremony at the IFIM Business School here.

The country is passing through a difficult phase. Complex problems lie ahead. The country needs better students with vision and foresightedness at present. Hence, the MBA students should herald a new dawn to convert the country into a fully developed nation, she added. Bedi called upon the students to uphold values of the institute, bring in ethical practices at the work place and contribute tremendously to make the country a great place to live in.

Bedi handed over diploma certificates to a total of 180 students. Members of the governing board of the IFIM Business School and noted corporates were present.

The gold medals for Academic Excellence were presented to Kamalika Pal and Chinmaya Mohapatra, while the gold medals for All Round Performance went to Lalitha Preeti and Veena Singh. The Best Project Award was given to Junaid Nazir.
